Pulaski Day on Monday

Casimir Pulaski Day in Illinois will be observed by school children on Monday.

First observed in 1966, the holiday commemorates the birthday of the Polish general who served under George Washington during the Revolutionary War.

Pulaski set up a calvary corps, named Pulaski's Legion, which was sent to fight in South Carolina. He was killed during the siege of Savannah.

All state, county and local government offices in addition to financial institutions will be open Monday with regular business hours.

Yearbooks in Madison may be in jeopardy

By Dorina Kimbro

MADISON — If student in the high school do not respond to the purchase of yearbooks this year the books may not ever be sold again.

Arthur Carter, principal at the high school, told the School Board that a poll was taken at the school to determine the interest in a yearbook and what students wanted to have in it.

There were 278 students who completed and returned the questionnaire. There were 236 students who wanted the yearbook continued. There were 209 students who said they would buy a book.

Seventeen pupils said they did not want a year book and 26 said they would be interested. Out of those asked if they would buy a book, 20 said no and 49 said maybe.

Last year 39 students and 29 adults ordered yearbooks. Previously the books were selling for $8, however this year the school editors of the publication increased the cost to $10. Each book costs $13 to prepare and publish, the principal said.

Grammy excites Mills

By Valerie Evenden

Few opera singers could be described as "bubbly," but the voice of Erie Mills sounded that way when she called the Granite City Press-Record/Journal Thursday.

"It's pretty exciting," she said, speaking from her new home in northern California about Tuesday's announcement in Hollywood that she was among the Grammy Award winners.

Sunday focus

Erie laughed while admitting she was unaware of the honor until the next day.

"I was on my way home that night from performances of Lucia in Cleveland and I didn't get to see the awards program," she said.

"I really didn't know until the next day when people started calling. My husband learned about it when he arrived at work and someone told him," she added.

"We made the recording about a year and a half ago and so much has happened, time starts running things together. We knew we had been nominated for an award," she said.

The widely acclaimed soprano shared the Grammy for her work as principal soloist for the opera recording, "Bernstein's Candide." John Mauceri conducted the New York City Opera Chorus and Orchestra for the recording. "Candide" also was televised in November on "Live from Lincoln Center."

The former Granite Citian said she and her husband, Dr. Thomas Reschigno, now live at Pleasanton, Calif. The couple was married nine months ago.

Compromise reached

By Dave Gosnell

GRANITE CITY — A last-minute compromise appears to have averted a strike by District 9 secretaries, which could have shut down the school system.

Negotiators for the district and the Secretarial Council Local 743-American Federation of Teachers, have held meetings throughout the week in an attempt to iron out differences in contract talks. A district proposal to end seniority preference for secretaries who want to bid on district job openings was strongly opposed by the union.

The compromise would still keep seniority preference but would obligate secretaries to remain in their jobs for two years if already employed and three years for new employees before being given the preference.

"There will be seniority bidding, but in modified form," said Lee Guenther, the Secretarial Council's president.

The secretaries voted unanimously to give the School Board

Asbestos, safety checks

By Valerie Evenden

Staff writer

VENICE — Asbestos and life-safety inspections soon will be made at the grade school, high school and at Venice-Lincoln Technical Center, Superintendent of Schools Robert N. Vickers advised the board Wednesday night.

Starting this month, the Illinois Department of Labor/Division of Safety Inspection and Education will begin making general safety inspections of all local government facilities, including schools, Vickers said.

THE DEPARTMENT of Public Health also will be inspecting Venice schools, a requirement of the Asbestos Abatement Act, the superintendent said.

Venice was one of three school districts in Illinois to be selected by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency in June 1985 to take part in a nationwide program for grants and loans for asbestos reduction.

A total of 4,800 school districts applied for funds with only 34 districts qualifying across the nation, including Venice and two other Illinois districts.

VENICE RECEIVED a grant of $76,375 and an interest-free loan of equal value to reduce asbestos hazards in the 1984 addition to the Venice Grade School.

The removal work concentrated on ceilings in classrooms, restrooms and hallways and was completed prior to students returning to class at the start of the 1985-86 school year.

G. Michael Brandt of the Public Health Department's Division of Environmental Health said his agency has been given responsibility for inspecting all educational facilities in the state and has contracted with Sitex Corp. to inspect the schools in the district for friable asbestos.

"I BELIEVE these inspections will include both public and parochial schools," Vickers informed the board.

"They (inspectors) prefer to make the inspection when students are not in session by scheduling access to buildings on weekends and during periods of time when students and other personnel are not present," the superintendent said.

"You are aware we still have some (asbestos) on piping in the basements. We may have some in other places which we should learn more about from the inspection," Vickers said.

"VENICE-LINCOLN still has some asbestos in the classroom ceilings," the administrator said.

Inspections to be made by the Department of Labor fall into two categories, Vickers said. One is an unannounced safety inspection conducted at work sites with citations issued for observed hazards, he reported.

The second program is a safety advisory inspection, a consultative program. Citations are not issued when non-serious hazards are observed during an advisory inspection, but safety recommendations will be made.

BOARD MEMBERS agreed to request a consultative inspection be made in the district to see what safety recommendations will result.

The district is continuing to renovate its buildings to conform to the Life-Safety Code. New fire doors were installed last year and interior doors are being replaced as part of the overall renovation program.

In preparation of the Department of Labor inspection, Peter Ponce, director of Venice-Lincoln Technical Center, informed the board a quantity of unused items are stored at the adult vocational education center.

SOME OLD KEY punch equipment which was donated to us by Center Bank about five years ago is stored in the gymnasium. I would like to keep anything we could use and dispose of the rest," Ponce said.

Ponce said a large number of old wooden desks also are stored on the stage in the gym. They are not causing a problem for us, but they do look messy."

The desks are a single-piece type with the seats connected and heavy, Ponce said.

Vickers suggested the head custodians check the desks, weeding out the usable pieces before disposing of the remainder.

"We're still using some of those desks here. Maybe we can replace our old ones with those stored at Lincoln," he said.

anton, Calif. The couple was married nine months ago.

"It is gorgeous, very beautiful here across the bay from San Francisco, but I still keep my place in New York," she said.

Erie maintains a busy schedule and, early last week, was performing with the Cleveland Opera in "Lucia di Lammermoor."

The New York City Opera soprano also is excited about returning to this area in mid-March when she will join the Masterworks Choral for a concert of sacred music at St. Peter's Cathedral in Belleville.

The 7:30 p.m. performance on Sunday, March 22, is open to the public without charge. The concert is funded by a bequest from the estate of Robert L. Miller.

"I will be doing Mozart's Exultate Jubilate and Bach's cantata 51," Erie said. In September, the soprano will make her Vienna Staatsoper debut in "Ariadne auf Naxos."

Her engagements this season also include the Santa Fe Opera; Radio Kamerkerk at the Concertgebouw; and with the St. Paul Chamber Orchestra and Minnesota Opera in a joint production.

Erie also will perform with the Dayton Philharmonic, New Jersey Symphony and Brooklyn Philharmonic.

Among the opera companies with which she has performed are the San Francisco Opera, La Scala, Hamburg State Opera, Washington Opera, Chicago Lyric Opera, Houston Grand Opera and the Tulsa Opera.

Her orchestral engagements have included the Chicago Symphony, St. Paul Chamber Orchestra, which marked her New York debut, Milwaukee Symphony in Carnegie Hall, Los ERIE MILLS, a former Granite City resident, said Thursday she is excited about sharing a Grammy Award for her role as principal soloist in a piece from the opera, "Bernstein's Candide." Mills will return to the Metro East on March 22 to perform at St. Peter's Cathedral, Belleville.

A large portion of the increase will be passed on to the newboys and girls who deliver the paper door to door. This will be the first price increase for the paper since 1982.

Award show for award shows

Another award show has come and gone with the presentation of the Grammys last week. It seems like we've already seen 20 of the three-hour-plus marathon shows this year and there are still 10 months left.

In addition to the Grammys there are the Oscars, Emmys, Tonys, Clees, People's Choice, American Music awards, the Ace awards, Songwriters and several country and western music awards. Just to name a few.

These shows seem to get longer and longer each year. Most used to start at 8 p.m. and invariably run over into the 10 o'clock news slot.

Now they start at 7 p.m. and still manage to run over into the 10 p.m. news slot. I can easily visualize a huge clock at the back of the auditorium for the host to keep track of during the show. Of course, it would be set about 20 minutes slow to make sure the show doesn't end on time.

One reason the shows usually last too long is the number of "big" production numbers scheduled. If they cut one or two they would have half a chance of ending on time.

Another reason the shows last too long, especially the Emmys and Oscars, is the wordy acceptance speeches by many of the winners. Some of the most cliché-ridden "thank yous" including their mothers, spouses and children.

And whoever picks the hosts for these shows must not know what kind of awards are being given because rarely do hosts have any connection with the industry giving the awards. It would seem like someone more knowledgeable about the industry could do a better job.

The people who present the awards could also use a little practice pronouncing the names of the nominees they will be announcing. Many seem like they have never heard of the nominees before reading their names from the cue cards on camera. It's also amusing to see the reactions of some of the winners when their names are called. Some look so shocked, like they didn't know they were even nominated. Still others look so silly as they walk or run up to the stage to receive their awards.

Columnists' Club

By Pat Foley

And when are the winners going to learn that they just can't go back to their seat after winning an award?

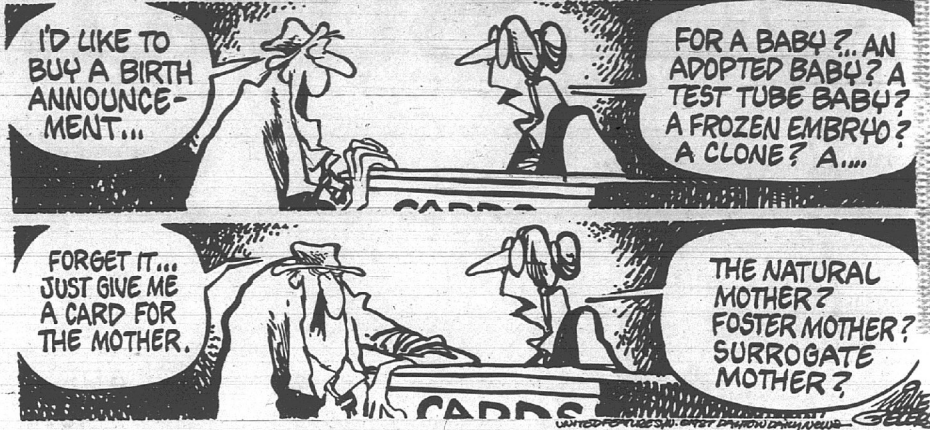

I've watched enough of the shows to know you have to walk off with presenters and the pretty girl who brought out the award. But at least one winner on every show tries to go back to his or her seat with the award.

And what about some of these awards and their names? There are the Oscars of the Academy Awards — each one a statue of a man — and the Grammys, which are miniature replicas of a telephone, given by the record industry.

One award that I haven't yet figured out is the Ace award for "Best TV program." It is a cut-out of the spade symbol used on playing cards.

And what is called the Ace, which is synonymous with the highest or best, then why isn't the trophy a letter "A" instead of a spade? Or why not just call the trophy the Spade?

Considering the number of award shows being shown on TV, I think it's time to have an award show for award shows. Of course, this show might never end.

Our revitalized city can attain greatness

Just a few years ago, Granite City was in a sad state of affairs. Always a proud industrial leader, we were racked by plant closings and layoffs.

As unemployment was hitting a new high, our downtown central business district was hitting a new low. Indeed, national analysts pegged Granite City as one of the top three declining cities in the country, and our people seemed to believe it. It was time for a change.

Rather quietly, and very carefully and deliberately, over the last 18 months, the foundation has been laid which we expect will deliver dramatic results in the near future.

Our industrial base is once again expanding. In the last 15 months, Granite City Steel, which was determined to become a world-class steel company, invested $88,000,000 in its plant, with another $75,000,000 to be added over the next two years. This modernization program has raised productivity and lowered the cost per ton and will insure Granite City Steel's future position in the steel industry.

Meanwhile, other old Granite City companies have been growing. Nestlé's took on a new product line last year and expanded its work force.

Sidener Supply outgrew its location and has moved to a new building in Northgate Industrial Center. This move worked out well with the expansion plans of Prairie Farms Dairy, which bought Sidener's lot downtown and added new warehouse facilities. When specialized services needed more space, they joined a growing list of tenants in Northgate Industrial Park.

Last year, Illinois Power Company prepared for future development at Northgate by expanding the size of the plant, extending infrastructure and forming a partnership with Korte Development and Builders. The new so-called industrial buildings will give them the ability to make quick deals and attract new industries to our area.

For the past 20 years, the revitalization of our central business district was a pipe dream. Today we stand on the verge of a renaissance which was beyond imagination just 18 months ago.

Starting last winter, we began to take the steps necessary to turn downtown Granite City into Old Village Centre.

We carefully laid out plans for exciting new developments, while setting standards for rehabilitation. We established a tax increment finance district and worked with other Illinois cities to get important amendments made to the TIF statute.

We sought out experts in shopping center development, and have assembled all the pieces to make it work.

In 1986, we annexed over 1,500 acres of commercial property to Granite City. Foremost was the blast furnace of Granite City Steel. Hard hit by foreign competition, the steel company has had to calculate every move. Every dollar spent, every employee hired is a major decision.

Their annexation petition was a proclamation of the importance of the city in the company's future and a vote of confidence in our administration.

Similarly, other large industries, realizing the key position Granite City plays in the future development of the area, have joined the city. Illinois Power Company, Norfolk & Western Railway and ETICAM Inc. all annexed land to the city last year.

Contrary to the doomsday predictions of a couple of years ago, today Granite City looks forward to an exciting future. ETICAM will open its new plant on Highway 3 late this year. Illinois Power's investment in Northgate Industrial Park will draw new business to the area, and efforts are under way to woo an auto parts manufacturer from Canada or Japan.

Negotiations are now under way to reach an agreement with Development Control Corporation to build a shopping center in the downtown area. Possibly stretching four blocks, it would rebuild the core of the city and produce over one and a half million dollars in redevelopment funds annually. If efforts continue on track the city could be buying the property for the development this year.

Annexation continues as a high priority. Although Nameoki officials have sought to deny their residents a voice in the matter at every opportunity, we have not given up. We believe it is in the best interest of the area, and that the majority of the affected residents would favor annexation if given the choice. We intend to give them that choice.

But the revitalization of a city is not just the responsibility of the mayor or the city council, and much good is being done by citizen action groups.

Dozens of our people have sought to help by giving time to the Township Youth Committee, the Township Senior Citizen Committee, the City Pride Committee, and the Economic Development Council.

Later last year, a new group began to come together. Its purpose: to promote the city and work for its continued growth and betterment.

This group, the Granite City Ambassadors, is working now to plan a citywide celebration to be held this spring. Spread over a two-week period, it will bring together groups and organizations throughout the city to host "We're Granite City Festival."

Planned as an annual event, it will serve to pull our people together and be a source of pride for our community.

We have seen much success over the last 18 months and even more lies ahead. But we won't be truly successful until each individual is involved in the effort.

Democracy doesn't mean we elect somebody else to take care of our problems. It is the combined efforts of all its citizens which bring results greater than any government could produce.

And people can contribute to their community in many ways, by helping out at the senior center, working with youth programs or neighborhood clean-up efforts, to name just a few.

We have a good city which could be a great city. Every day I see more and more people stepping forward to lend a hand, speaking with pride about their town, and pitching in to make it better. You can, too!

Texans in Washington

UNDER THE DOME: Tourists on Capitol Hill might soon begin noticing a little more Texas and a little more Massachusetts in the scenes of the Capitol Hill police and other administrative personnel. House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, has removed Joe Moakley, D-Mass., as head of the Democratic Personnel Committee, a post he had held for 10 years and replaced him with Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas. The Capitol's cops, doormen, elevator operators and janitors all get their jobs through the personnel committee. (read "patronage")

RIDE OUR ROCKET?: After the Challenger disaster of January 1986, the Kremlin began wooing pro-Western governments with invitations to send would-be astronauts in Soviet rocket ships. A number of nations have mullied over the possibility, including Britain, but the country that seems most likely to take the bait is Argentina. NASA invited the Argentines in late 1985 to select an air force officer for a trip on its shuttle, according to our sources, but the timetable was wrecked by the Challenger tragedy. Argentine discussions with the Soviets since then are described as "very positive."

DANGEROUS FOODS?: The Food and Drug Administration is not doing an adequate job of checking foods for residues of illegal pesticides, according to General Accounting Office investigators. Less than 1 percent of pesticides are inspected for such contamination, the investigators estimate, and in any case the FDA has no authority to pull food off the market when it is found to contain hazardous pesticides.

Soldiers owe debt to war correspondent

Many journalists maintain their "watchdog" obligation should extend to the combat zone so that the American people are assured the military performs its function.

The Reagan administration, perhaps in part blaming the press for the unpopularity of the Vietnam conflict, slapped down the press by denying front-line coverage of the Grenada invasion in 1983.

The press has a tradition of responsible wartime coverage and there was a outcry when Reagan's regrettable anti-press decision. The American press is, when stripped to its essentials, American — revealing valid military secrets has no place in responsible reporting.

One of those exemplifying a responsible press attitude toward wartime coverage was Ernie Pyle. A World War II correspondent who brought Americans the war from the Kasserine Pass in North Africa, Anzio beach in Italy and from Pacific islands, Pyle earned the respect of peers and the public by reducing the vast arena of conflict to the perspective of those living hand to hand, fighting hand to hand, dying.

His concern for individual soldiers is evident in the syndicated articles he wrote from the time he began covering the war in 1940 until his death by sniper fire on Ie Shima, April 18, 1945. The articles, edited in Ernie's War by David Nichols for Random House, are a diary of World War II that strips away myths of heroism and reveals them as real heroes — men who fought and died because they were swept by a storm none could oppose. Among the many articles in the book is one in which Pyle, in his paternalistic style, argues that the combat troops of that article resulted in immediate Congressional action — in less than two months a 50 percent raise was approved for all soldiers involved in combat.

In honor of Pyle, press coverage of the military, and on the anniversary of that article, I penned March 1, 1944, "Goed to Bat for the Boys" is reproduced here. Half the article deals with the pay issue, the other half with Christmas.

IN ITALY, March 1, 1944—In my usual role of running other people's business, I've been thrashing around an idea—honoring it. It's to give the combat soldier some little form of recognition more than he is getting now. Everybody who serves overseas, no matter where or what he's doing, gets extra pay. Enlisted men get twenty percent additional and officers ten percent.

Airmen get an extra fifty percent above this for flight pay. As a result, officer-fliers get thirty percent above their normal base pay and enlisted-fliers such as gunners and radio operators get seventy percent.

All this is fine and as it would be, but the idea I was toying with is why not give your genuine combat ground soldier something corresponding to flight pay? Maybe a good phrase for it would be "flight pay."

Of any one million men overseas, probably no more than one hundred thousand are in actual combat with the enemy. But as it is now, there is no official distinction between the dogface lying for days and nights under combat mortar fire on an Italian hill, and the headquarters clerk living comfortably in a dark room in Rome.

Their two worlds are so far apart the human mind can barely grasp the magnitude of the difference. One lives like a beast and dies in great numbers. The other is merely working away from home. Both are doing necessary jobs, but it seems to me the actual warrior deserves something to set him apart. And medals are not enough.

When I was at the front the last time several infantry officers brought up this same suggestion. They say combat pay would mean a lot to the fighting man. It would put him into a proud category and make him feel that somebody appreciates what he endures. Obviously no soldier would ever join combat to get extra "flight pay." That isn't the point. There is not enough money in the world to pay any single individual his due for battle suffering.

But it would put a mark of distinction on him, a recognition that his miserable job was a royal one and that the rest of us were aware of it.

Madison County Federal to form holding company

GRANITE CITY — Paul F. Sodko, president of Madison County Federal Savings and Loan Association, announced Monday that the board of directors has approved a plan providing for reorganization of Madison County Federal as the subsidiary of a newly-formed holding company to be known as First Madison Financial Corporation.

Under the plan, the existing shareholders will exchange their shares of Madison County Federal's common stock for an equal number of shares of First Madison Financial, which will thereafter own all of the outstanding shares of Madison County Federal.

Sodko said the primary reason behind the proposed reorganization is the belief by management that diversification of business activities and future business acquisitions and combinations can be more easily and advantageously accomplished through a holding company structure.

At present, however, no specific acquisitions are planned or pending, nor has the proposed holding company formulated any specific plans to engage in other lines of business after it commences operations.

As of Nov. 30, 1986, Madison County Federal had total assets of $133 million. It is headquartered at 3600 Nameoki Road, Granite City, and operates three branch offices in Collinsville, Glen Carbon and Troy.

Phoenix Center program topic

Barbara Young from the Phoenix Crisis Center explained to the Nameoki Women's Club the "tremendous need to help battered women and children in the Quad Cities."

"This Center was incorporated in April 1985 and is helped financially through donations from the United Way, groups, churches and individuals. Trained volunteers man the hotline, 451-1008," she said.

Mrs. Young told of "experiences that are traumatic, but true. The average stay of those in need is about 72 hours, although a few stay longer. Since finances are so limited, interested persons may contact the hotline and donate toilet articles, paper products, laundry detergent, convenience foods, and coupons."

Dolores Allen, president of the Nameoki Women's Club, reported the district meeting will be held on March 13 at Our Lady of the Snows, the annual spring meeting on March 27 at Ramada Inn in Fairview Heights, and the state convention on May 7, 8 and 9 at Holiday Inn, Rosemont, Ill. The club collect was led by the president.

Witt will travel to Peoria for the March 3 state contest. If Witt wins in Peoria, he will be eligible to enter the Legion's national contest.

Chandler thanked many involved in the area contests, including high school speech teacher Ron Pennell, Bill Moreland, Granite City, who provided transportation for participants; Burton Bernard, Granite City, who served as a contest judge; 5th Division oratorical chairman Kermit Hoftgrewe and past Ladies Auxiliary presidents for 113, Barb Weathers and Betty Hardison.

ASK A CHIROPRACTOR

Q. What is golfers elbow and is it similar to tennis elbow?

A. Golfers elbow is a painful condition which involves swelling and in some cases tearing of the forearm muscles and tendons at the point where they attach to the bony part of the elbow. It is common in individuals who participate in activities where excessive movements of the wrist and forearm are required such as golfers, tennis players, carpenters and meat cutters. Golfers elbow and tennis elbow are actually the same conditions but occur at two different locations. Golfers elbow involves the medial or inner aspect of the elbow joint while tennis elbow involves the lateral or outer aspect of the elbow. These conditions aren't exclusive for the sports they are named after. For example a right handed golfer presented with a tennis elbow in the leading left arm and golfers elbow in the following right arm. Initially, he was treated with physical therapy and rest until his symptoms subsided, then his club grip was changed and he was given strengthening exercises. Often these conditions can be avoided by using a racket or club which properly fits the hand and learning a correct swing.

Gephardt first Democrat to run for White House

Under the glass-covered train shed at St. Louis Union Station Monday, U.S. Rep. Richard A. Gephardt began a journey he hopes will end at the White House.

"Today, surrounded by my family and friends, and not far from where I grew up and on the site where Harry Truman accepted victory, I am announcing my candidacy for president," Gephardt said.

"I intend, with your help, to finish first."

Although Monday's speech had been planned for weeks, and Gephardt's presidential intentions known for years, the partisan crowd at Union Station gave the south St. Louisan a rousing sendoff.

Gephardt is the first major Democratic candidate to declare his candidacy.

He established the themes of his campaign: economic leadership, international trade, fair play for the American farmer, national literacy and respect for the law.

"We see the problems, for they are all around us," Gephardt said. "In facing issues honestly, some very difficult, I see challenges as great and engaging as any in our history."

"If a president will lead, there is no problem too great for the American people to solve."

Former U.S. Sen. Thomas Eagleton introduced Gephardt to the throng. He recalled the early days of the 3rd District congressman's political career.

"I first became aware of the talents of Dick Gephardt in 1971 when he was elected to the St. Louis Board of Aldermen," Eagleton said. "He has shown, early on, the political attribute of being out-front and up-front on the issues."

"We need a president who knows what to talk about rather than one who is told what to talk about."

Gephardt, 46, was flanked on the podium by his wife, Jane; his three children, Matt, 16, Chrissy, 13, and Katie, 9; and his mother, Loren.

Other survivors include one son, Roy A. Meyer, Angola, Ind.; three granddaughters; two brothers, Christ Doucette, Alton, and Victor Doucette, Indianapolis; and three sisters, Mrs. John (Glady's) Hopewell, Pontoon Beach, Mrs. Christ (Slavka Alice) Nizamor, Springfield, Ind., and Mrs. Steve (Millee) Soney, Granite City.

Father Dimitry Anglov officiated at 2:30 p.m. services Feb. 23 at St. Stephen Bulgarian Eastern Orthodox Church in Indianapolis. Burial was at Crown Hill Cemetery, Indianapolis. Arrangements were by Conkle Funeral Home.

Webb
Philip Webb, 23, of 600 Lincoln Ave., Venice, was pronounced dead of apparent gunshot wounds at 4:55 a.m. Sunday, Feb. 21, 1987, at the corner of 2nd Street and Summit Avenue, East St. Louis. A coroner's inquest is pending.

A lifelong area resident, Mr. Webb was born Feb. 5, 1964, in St. Louis.

Among the survivors are four children, Philip Webb of Venice, Donta Webb of East St. Louis, and Jermian and Jarmale Webb; his parents, Joseph Webb and Mrs. Battie Webb, both of Venice; a sister, Miss Yolanda Webb of Venice; and two brothers, Eric and Winston Webb, both of Venice.

Services were held at noon Saturday, Feb. 28, at Bibleway Apostolic Church, 1247 Klein St., Venice, with the Rev. Reggie Fields, pastor, officiating. Burial was at Calvary Cemetery, St. Louis. Officer Funeral Home, East St. Louis, was in charge of arrangements.

Rites conducted for Evangeline Martin
The Rev. William Roddy officiated at 10 a.m. services Saturday at the First Church of the Nazarene for Evangeline "Vang" (Cheerwas) Martin, 70, of Granite City.

She died Wednesday morning, Feb. 25, 1987, at St. John Mercy Hospital, St. Louis.

Burial was at Lake View Memorial Gardens, Belleville. Mercer Mortuary, 1416 Niedringhaus Ave., was in charge of the arrangements.

Rites conducted for Myril Dodson, 49
The Rev. William Mullis conducted 9:30 a.m. services Friday at Irwin Chapel for Myril R. Dodson, 59, of Granite City.

He died at 7:38 p.m. Feb. 25, 1987, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Burial was in National Cemetery, Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

Judge gives Gerald Bassett probation

Gerald Bassett was sentenced Feb. 20 for his part in a scheme in which property assessments were improperly lowered.

Bassett, 34, was sentenced by Madison County Associate Judge Charles Romani to 30 months of probation.

He was fined $2,000 and was ordered to pay $66 in court costs and perform 500 hours of public service work.

Romani also issued a 90-day jail sentence subject to review at the end of the probation.

Gerald Bassett was convicted in October of 10 counts of official misconduct, one count of conspiracy to commit bribery and one count of conspiracy to commit official misconduct.

Under the scheme, assessments were lowered in exchange for donations to a defense fund for former Supervisor of Assessments James Barton.

Charges against Gerald Bassett's father, Merle Bassett, remain under advisement by Romani. Merle Bassett was tried in January on one count each of conspiracy to commit official misconduct, conspiracy to commit bribery, bribery and perjury.

A related trial involving lawyer Robert F. "Pat" Quinn ended this week with Quinn being found innocent by Romani.

Quinn, Barton, the Bassetts and two others were indicted in December 1984 in connection with allegations about improper assessment reductions.

New pump station near replacement locks, dam

A contract for the construction of a new pump station has been awarded to J.S. Alberici Construction Co. Inc. of St. Louis.

The station will be in Madison County, just downstream from the Locks and Dam 26 replacement project north of Granite City.

The new pump station will be built to handle increased seepage because of the raised pool height behind the new locks and dam.

The station will replace two existing pump stations. It will preclude the necessity of building a third station to handle the increased seepage.

The work includes constructing a concrete pump station structure, dewatering system mechanically stabilized embankment, relief wells (new and modified), subsurface drainage system, concrete collector ditch and culverts.

The work also includes clearing, earthwork, laying crushed stone surfacing and stone protection, establishing turf, installing three pumps, upgrading the existing two 60-inch diameter drainage pipe, and mechanical and electrical work. Also included in the contract are alterations to an existing pump station.

Alberici's bid of $6,853,727 was the lowest of four received by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, St. Louis District.

Alberici will have about a year and nine months to complete the project after receiving notice to proceed.

AIDS toll-free area hotline starts Monday

The AIDS Prevention Program for Madison County opens its toll-free information line on Monday, March 2, according to program coordinator Tony Miller.

By dialing 1-800-345-2383 between 9 a.m. and noon, Monday through Friday, county residents can request information about AIDS and AIDS prevention and can make appointments to take the AIDS antibody test.

The test, known as the ELISA, is not a test for the HIV virus known to cause AIDS, but a blood test which shows the presence or absence of antibodies to the HIV virus.

"If the ELISA is positive, that does not mean a person has or ever will have AIDS, only that the person has been exposed to the virus and can transmit it to his or her sexual partners," Miller said. Only about 20 percent of people testing positive will develop AIDS, he said.

The AIDS antibody test is particularly important for persons in the high-risk groups for AIDS.

These groups are male homosexuals, bisexual men, intravenous drug users, persons who have received transfusions of blood or blood products, and sexual partners of these persons.

"The testing component of the AIDS Prevention Program for Madison County is designed to be strictly confidential," Miller said. "Those taking the test will be known only by a code number to insure their anonymity."

The AIDS Prevention Program also offers prevention education to interested groups of professionals who work with high-risk populations. Education programs can be scheduled by calling the toll-free number.

The Madison County AIDS Prevention Program is funded through the Illinois Department of Public Health by a grant administered by Coordinated Youth Services of Granite City.

Seminar on math

Compromise reached with District 9 union

a five-day strike notice on Feb. 20. The secretaries would have been legally able to strike Tuesday morning and many teachers probably would have honored picket lines.

Union secretaries voted Friday afternoon at Coolidge Junior High School to accept the tentative agreement.

"We will be at work as usual," Guehrler said.

"It (the agreement) will be presented Tuesday night," said Superintendent Gib Walsmley, referring to the School Board's Tuesday meeting. "It's being recommended (for passage)."

Grief self-help meeting Mar. 2

The Bereavement Self-Help Group started by Thomas Mortuaries Ltd. to help people adapt to and work through their grief will meet Monday, March 2, at the Nameoki United Presbyterian Church, 1700 Pontoon Road, at 7 p.m.

Cathy Nevlin, a psychiatric social worker for 13 years, with a master's degree in social work from St. Louis University, facilitates and educates the group. She said, "The first purpose is to help people understand that people are experts on themselves, that everyone grieves differently, and that there is no set time period for the grieving process."

"The second purpose is to help the group share its grieving experiences and, through interaction, help each other to come to terms with their grief."

"The most important thing to understand and do is to realize that you aren't crazy as a result of your grieving experiences, and to reinvest in life and go on living."

The Bereavement Self-Help Group meets each first Monday. It has no set agenda but tries to meet the participants' needs as they arise. Those wanting more information about the program may call Elizabeth Neeley at 876-4321.

Devils struggle past Lebanon to win regional

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

FREEBURG — For the undefeated team that Venice defeated Lebanon 59-48 in the Freeburg Class A Regional championship game Friday, they will assume the Devils had it all their way in rolling to an 11-point victory.

They will be dead wrong. The game was anything but easy, and Venice now 22-2 and headed for the Vandalia Sectional — even trailed by five points midway through the third quarter at 32-27.

But the Devils overcame a pesky Greyhound squad, outscoring them 12-2 at the end of the third quarter to take a five-point lead, then hung on for dear life in the fourth quarter before extending their lead late to make the final score very deceptive.

"It was as close an 11-point game as I've ever seen," said Venice coach Clinton Harris. "We played Lebanon three times this year, and every one was close. They didn't give up."

"My boys did everything I asked of them," said a downcast John Schieppe, the Lebanon coach. "We looked as good or better than Venice for much of the game. But we had a couple of dry spells that hurt us. This was no more an 11-point game than anything."

The Devils, who played many of their regular season games in cruise control, knew it won't be that way for any post-season games, and they forged out a 25-22 lead at halftime in an intensely-played game. They did it despite the uncharacteristically cold shooting of forward Wilfred Wigfall, who was 3 for 7 in the half.

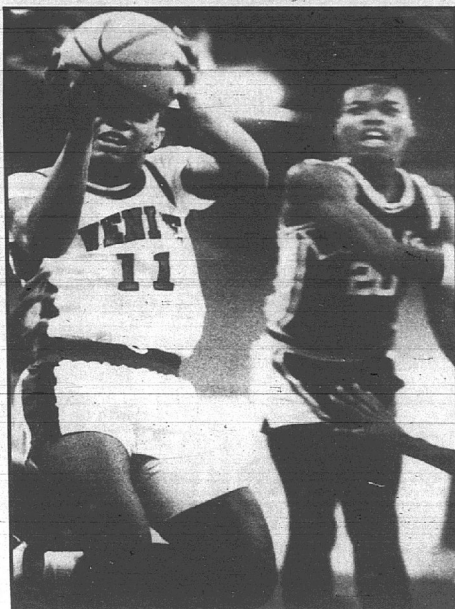

But the Greyhounds had trouble connecting also, and both teams were well under 50 percent in the half. The Devils came out cold in the third quarter, and buckets by Steve Schieppe and Steve Peters gave the Greyhounds a 26-25 lead. Richard Weber's 18-footer gave Lebanon a 32-27 lead, and Harris called a timeout.

"Our players looked like it was the end of the world," Harris said. "I just told them to stay calm and play. There's no sense in me jumping up and down and getting technical. If I stay calm, they will, too."

It was left to Jesse Hall to get things going the Devils' way. He stole the ball and fed Dale Turner behind the back for a layup. Then repeated the process seconds later. After a missed Schieppe shot, Wigfall steamed down the middle of the court and blew by everyone for a layup and a 33-32 Venice lead.

Lebanon took the lead one more time when Hall was called for goaltending on a Ronald Vann shot, but Hall, Vincent Harris and Daryl Jackson scored

Hogans collect 60 points as Warriors rip Alton, 92-75

By Gary King
Correspondent

GRANITE CITY — For a microcosmic peek at Granite City's 92-75 trouncing of the Alton Redbirds Friday night, let's journey over to Memorial Gymnasium, site of 59 Warrior roundball drubbings over the last three winters.

The scene is the second quarter. Granite City ahead 24-20. Like many of their tilts this season, the Big Red Warriors had a hard time getting off the ground against the lowly (8-12) Redbirds. At one point of the first stanza, Alton led 13-9 and Granite City didn't resemble in any way, shape or fashion a team that could possibly make any noise in the upcoming post season tournament.

Now let us switch live to the second quarter, where Alton has just inbounded for the opening possession.

A bucket by Paul Dread cuts Granite City's lead to 24-22. Jamie Hogan nails an 18-footer. Alton's Scott Middleton hits a free throw, giving Granite City a 26-23 lead.

Ladies and gentlemen, please fasten your seatbelts. We'll be breaking the speed barrier shortly.

A Jamie Hogan lay-up. Another Jamie Hogan lay-up. A Tim Hogan aerial strike. An Avon interruption. Back to our regularly scheduled programming — another Jamie Hogan bucket. A Jamie Hogan free throw. Another Jamie Hogan bucket. Another Alton interruption. A Jamie bucket followed by a Tim Hogan

Put it all together and it spells a 32-29 Granite City lead.

Now let's switch over to the Granite City bench, where the watercooler is about to become the meeting place for all five Granite City starters.

Over on the Alton bench, we see Stan McAfoos with that same how-does-anybody-stop-them look that every visiting coach this season has given that awesome tag team with the same last name, those pesky little brothers who specialize in duo-handling wreaking misery on opposing defenses.

In Friday's episode of The Hogan Show, Jamie scored 34 points, collected three steals, three assists and four rebounds. Timmy scored 26 points and dished out eight assists as something of an afterthought.

Just another night at the office. "Your only hope is to play good man-to-man defense against them (the Hogans), and tonight we didn't do that," said McAfoos. "You know they're going to shoot. You know they're good offensive players. So you know you've gotta be close enough to at least get a hand in their face when they shoot."

Over to the Warrior locker room, where Warrior coach Don Deterding is part basking in his squad's 60th win over the past three years, part nervous over the fact that now his GLW (Gutty Little Warriors) would have to beat Belleville West in their season finale in order to clinch a share of the Southwestern Conference title with Collinsville (the Kahoks gained a share of the title with a 60-55 win at East St. Louis Friday) and part concerned over the chore awaiting them next Tuesday night — a regional showdown with East St. Louis Lincoln.

The Hogans were great, what else can you say about them? Deterding said, reflecting on the win which raised his squad to 17-7 on the season. "If I thought (David) Veizer did a good job for us on the boards, (Eric) Ryterski did a good job defensively and (Greg) Lilley just played a fantastic all-around game."

"But we didn't play well at all in the fourth quarter. Ah, yes, the fourth quarter. The only eight-minute span where GLW bore any resemblance to being mortal. In the final five minutes of play, Granite City let an 87-80 advantage dwindle down to an 89-73 lead with 2:30 left. By this time, however, Alton's barrage was like General Custer fighting off the Indians with a watergun."

And as instrumental as The Hogan Show was in lighting up the scoreboard, Lilley, Ryterski and Veizer were equally important in doing everything else.

Along with playing a solid floor game, Lilley scored 12 points and blocked two shots. Ryterski scored seven points and pestered Alton throughout with his glue-like defense. Veizer stepped in for a foul-laden Tom Taylor and scored four points, pulling down 11 rebounds in the process.

But even with all this, can Lincoln be chopped come Tuesday night?

"Well I feel a heckuva lot better now than I did at the start of the season," Deterding said. "It's definitely going to be quite a chore, but it's not something I would say can't be done."

Based on Friday night, it can be done. But not due-handedly.

Round 2 with Lovejoy makes no mess

By Dave Whaley

FREEBURG — After all the worrying, all the speculation and all the precautions, everything came off without a hitch.

The big rematch between Venice and Lovejoy in the semifinals of the Freeburg Class A Regional was a much-anticipated game after a brawl had ended the regular-season meeting between the two teams. There were a few extra policemen on hand Thursday night, but there was no problem at all.

It wouldn't be entirely accurate to say the Devils had no problem, but they were in charge for much of the game and cruised to a 59-51 win over the Wildcats to advance to Friday night's regional championship game against Lebanon.

Jesse Hall, who was out of the lineup when the Devils and Wildcats had their ill-fated meeting in January, was in playoff form Thursday, scoring 32 points while Wilfred Wigfall and Dale Turner had 20 apiece. Terrell McKire had 27 for the Wildcats, who finished their season at 9-9.

The game was a track meet, with two of the quickest teams in the area going up and down the court all night. It was hard-fought, but lacked the rough edge that led to disaster when the teams last met.

"I knew nothing would happen tonight," said Venice coach Clinton Harris. "It was something that never should have happened last time. I told our players that if anything was happening tonight, they should just say something to the referees. But both teams showed good sportsmanship."

They showed a lot of energy, too, as the teams traded baskets for a while in the first quarter. Wigfall was blazing hot in the first quarter, then Hall took over as the Devils took a 22-15 lead after eight minutes.

The shooting of McKire and Trenton Wellmaker kept Lovejoy in the game in the second quarter, but Hall and Turner kept the Venice break moving, and they

Stars ousted by Kaskaskia

By Carl Jacobs
Staff writer

BELLEVEILLE — Granite City Campus accomplished everything its game plan called for to win Thursday's battle with Kaskaskia, but three late turnovers put an end to its season and an almost-perfect performance in the first round of the Section 3, Region 24 National Junior College Association of America playoffs.

"Going into the game we felt we had to stop their fast break, play good defense and capitalize on our fast break, and we did all those things," said Stars coach Terry Collins. "We just did not take care of the ball in the end."

Granite City used a 14-2 scoring spurt at the beginning of the third quarter to make up a 10-point deficit and take a 42-40 lead. After that, neither team took more than a two-point lead until Kaskaskia used the Stars' turnovers to take an eight-point lead with four minutes left in the game and go on to a 74-48 win.

"Every player gave a good effort," Collins said. "We could have given up sub-consciously, but they battled back and we were in position to win the game."

The Stars were led by a balanced offensive attack. Aaron Martin scored 20 points and grabbed eight rebounds; Corey Silas chipped in 16 points and three rebounds; Perry Jones canned 11 points and controlled the boards with 17 rebounds; and Cleon Williamson had 12 points and six rebounds.

"No one player had an outstanding game, but each one did their part," Collins said.

Collins' bench has been depleted most of the season and he had just six players in uniform for the game. Kirt Robinson was the latest casualty. Robinson was averaging 22 points a game, but went down with a knee injury last week. Other players who have missed most of the season are David Weller and James Gordon. These are only a few of the injured, but Collins does not dwell on the injuries.

"I don't worry about the players I don't have available," he said. "You have to take the players available to you and do the best you can. We can't do anything about the injuries, so you might as well go out try to win games, something we can control."

The Stars finished 11-20 this season and Collins is looking for strong inside players and aggressive defenders for next year.

"My main concern is the inside game," he said. "We have some players we are looking at, but we will have to work to get them. However, we feel confident."

consecutive baskets to give the Devils a 39-34 lead at the end of three quarters.

As the Greyhounds tried to get back in the game in the fourth quarter, the Devils got a lift from an unexpected source — senior guard Orlando Love. Three times Lebanon cut the margin to three points, and three times Love drained outside jump shots to give the Devils a five-point edge again. They came at a time when Harris might have been looking only for high-percentage shots.

"I wanted Love to take those shots," Harris said. "He's our second best shooter, behind Wigfall."

Peters' basket made it 47-44, but Wigfall stole the ball after a missed shot by Love and layed it in, then converted a layup off a rebound. Hall to give Venice a 53-46 lead with 1:10 left. Vann traveled on the next trip down the court, and it wasn't until then that things seemed safe.

Jackson's two free throws with five seconds left marked the first time the Devils had a lead of more than nine points all night.

"I knew we would have to play an exceptional game to beat them," Schiepp said. "But it took an exceptional effort from Venice to beat us. And we didn't let them play Jesse-ball. This is a tough regional, and I think Venice will represent us well in the sectional."

"This is one of the toughest regionals in the state," Harris said. "Any team is capable of beating another here. We just had to go all-out, and I'm really glad to get out of here with a win."

The Devils will play Gillespie at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday night at Vandalia while Kimmunity-Alma faces Staunton Wednesday night in the other semifinal game. The championship game is Friday night at 7:30 p.m.

took a 45-34 halftime lead. The Devils made 20 of 29 shots in the first half and were 31 of 44 (70 percent) through three quarters.

"Our shooting kept us in the game in the first half," Harris said.

The pesky Wildcats kept coming back, not allowing the Devils to blow the game open, and eight Venice turnovers in the third quarter let Lovey creep back into the game. But a Venice timeout helped switch the momentum.

"I wanted them to slow it down a little bit," Harris said. "We didn't need to shoot anything but layups and free throws."

Turner broke away for a layup, then Vincent Harris set up Wigfall for two quick layups, and it was 71-54 after three quarters. But back came the Wildcats, and two free throws by Wellmaker made it 74-66 with 5½ minutes left. It was still a 10-point game until Hall got three straight baskets, then made a great play to save the ball inbounds to Turner, who passed to Wigfall for a layup and a 91-73 lead.

"I didn't like that week off we got because of the bye," Harris said. "But the players know every team we play now will be tough, and we were ready."

Hogans are honorable mention on Class AA all-state team

Tim and Jamie Hogan were both given honorable mention on the 1987 Associated Press Class AA All-State basketball team this week.

The Hogans were among nine area players named to the honorable mention squad, while East St. Louis Lincoln center Laphonso Ellis was named to the first team.

Jamie Hogan, a 6-0 senior forward, is averaging 18.6 points per game this year, with 119 assists and 75 steals. He is also one of the leading free throw shooters in the area with an 85.3 percentage.

Twin brother Tim, a 5-9 senior guard, is averaging 17.7 points and is second in the area with 140 assists. He recently became the sixth player in Granite City history to score 1,000 points in his varsity career.

Other area players named as honorable mention were Julyon Brown of East St. Louis, James Harris and Chris Rodgers of East St. Louis Lincoln, Tony Herd of Alton, Kevin Schwarz of Belleville, Althoff, Jon Sherry of Collinsville and Steve Toles of O'Fallon.

Ellis, averaging 20 points, 20 rebounds and nine blocked shots per game, is one of three juniors named to the first team. He joins Andy Kauffman of Jacksonville and Eric Anderson of St. Francis de Sales as underclassmen. Marcus Liberty of Chicago King was the only unanimous choice to the first team.

He is averaging 26 points per game and is the only repeater from last year's team. Liberty is bound for the University of Illinois next season.

Rounding out the 12-man first team were Deon Butler of Chicago Simeon, Walter Bond of Chicago Collins, Joe Cook of Lincoln, Curtis Stuckey of Peoria Manual, Larry Gorman of Oak Forest, Bobby Smith of Rich Central, Mark Anglar of LaSalle-Peru and Mark Baugh of Elgin.
